

Pandastical

Acadia (Civ Universe)

Pandastical joined the Civ Universe in early January of 2021. At first, he went to Dirt Nation and established a small home. However, being disenfranchised with their soil-yness, he soon left for Acadia, which he had heard of via Discord.

Pandastical was one of the early members of Acadia, and established an igloo south of the potato farm. However, due to a farm expansion, he'd have to rebuild the farm. He had to rebuild his house around six times during his time in Acadia, with the final house later being turned into a Hyperborean Confederacy embassy.

During his time in Acadia he would be active in politics, joining the center-left Snow Party, alongside Layman9 and Schmilly. Him and Layman actively disliked each other however, causing discontentment in the party. Due to an active rivalry against the Snow-Progressive Party, however, they remained in the party.

Pandastical would harshly oppose a strong government and government overreach into the lives of an average citizen. This would involve a major disagreement over Senate power, which he believed was too powerful. This would eventually lead to him leaving Acadia around Valentine's Day, due to an act which allowed the government to require snitches in private property.

Isolation Period

Pandastical would stay on the same ice continent as Acadia (Hyperborea), but go down to the southwest. There on a small peninsula he would found the Kingdom of Snowland, under himself. This, in contrast to his democratic ideals, was done so he would have complete authority over himself.

There he would build a small igloo and a potato farm. Attempts for Snowland to be recognized by Acadia were denied in negotiations between him and Acadia's prime minister Cortwade, due to the kingdom being a one man nation. This was done on purpose, because Pandastical had interests in joining the Courier's Guild, and only wanted land to store his things.

However, due to political motivations, he would seek to reorganize Snowland into a Confederation. This would consist of various states under one banner but each having autonomy and their own political systems. This would not occur. Soon enough Pandastical would meet Heyn8 and SpacemanSpleef, who had recently made a small city called Apollo. Once that city, further north, was abandoned they went right across from Pandastical's peninsula and founded a small city called Gemini. A little while later Snowland joined Lunalia, and they became a single nation.

Pandastical and SpacemanSpleef would rework the nation using the basis of Pandastical's ideas for the Snowland Confederation, and create the Hyperborean Confederation.

The Hyperborean Confederation

There, Pandastical would do many things, including but not limited to; building roads, becoming Secretary of the Interior, starting a railroad to Acadia, become the first champion of Civ UFC, and more. He would also get pearled once by ChipSkylark, a prominent raider who tricked Pandastical by asking to buy potatoes.

He would participate in the Bloodless Battle of Hecendor, which was the entrance of the Hyperborean Confederation into the War to End All Wars (the JSDF-New Vegas War). He would be pearled here by Gregy, and remain pearled for the remainder of the war.

After the war, during the server's last breaths, he would become less and less active in the HC. With the dissolution of the server, the Hyperborean Confederation would end as well.

Acadia (Civ Classics)

With Civ Universe put down like a dead dog, Pandastical took a temporary break from Civ before rejoining Acadia in late April and early May. Here he would go to settle the Acadian Lewis Islands, claiming it for himself.

He would help found the Acadian Imports Company with Scammer_Stevee (a friend and founder of the GRILL Party from Civ Universe) and Owain_X (founder of Lovelace). He would also help found the Acadian Trade and Prosperity Party with them, a center right business-focused party meant to both represent the company's interests and promote the Acadian economy.

It would be under this party when he would announce his candidacy for Minister of Defense as a joke candidate. However, when Pandastical voted Aye to reduce the status of Owain_X's state to an Organized Territory due to its population, the party would dissolve.

He would then join the National Defense Party with Spaceman_Spleef and Aelfred. However, due to disagreements with Spleef, he would leave this party a day or less later and be an independent candidate.

His disagreement with the power of the federal government in Acadia would continue in its congress with a vote against the allowance of private vaults, and an act that could allow the government to legally take people's land with a majority vote in the National Assembly.

During his time in Acadia he would settle and develop the Acadian Lewis Islands, create the Northeast Canal, and try to get as much obsidian as he could.

Current Status

Currently he is a citizen and active political contributor to the Second Republic of Acadia.